Hello and welcome to the Trinity Hall Review 2016/17, looking back on an exciting academic year for the College community.

Major milestones this year include a number of events and projects marking 40 years since the admission of women to Trinity Hall, the completion of WYNG Gardens and the acquisition of a new portrait and a new tapestry, both currently on display in the Dining Hall.

We hope you enjoy reading the Review and on behalf of everyone at Trinity Hall, thank you for your continued and generous support.

Thank you to all who have contributed to this edition of the Trinity Hall Review.

We would also like to thank the College photographer, Kiloran Howard.
Once again we can celebrate a year of solid achievement for the College with the opening of a new building at WYNG Gardens, the former St Clement's, providing over 70 state-of-the-art student rooms as well as conference facilities; continued success in various ways academically, socially and culturally; celebration of the 40th anniversary of the admission of women; the advent of a promising group of new undergraduate and graduate students; and the recruitment of new Fellows. You will read much of the detail of this elsewhere in the Review, and I want to register here praise and appreciation for all of those who have contributed to this in one way or another.

But as historians know well, sometimes significant changes do not attract much attention. This year we have something mundane but nonetheless hugely important to celebrate – the complete revision of the College’s Statutes. The Statutes required the threefold approval of the Privy Council, the Charity Commissioners, and the University, and will only be altered in the 1970s, with a major addition to reflect changing employment law in the 1990s, but they were always an awkward mixture of the general and the specific, and over the years they have been found no longer adequate on specific issues. Furthermore, the application of charity law to the College, via the Charity Commissioners, left the old Statutes looking somewhat obsolete. The revision began under my predecessor, and was led by the then Vice-Master, Professor John Clarkson. It has been a long work, not least because, in place of one set of Statutes, we have developed a three-tier structure of College law, echoing that of many other colleges and of the University itself – Statutes, stating broad principles; Ordinances, applying the principles in general terms; and Regulations, making detailed provision for the application of the Statutes and Ordinances. The Statutes required the threefold approval of the Privy Council, the Charity Commissioners, and the University, and will only be altered in the most exceptional circumstances. The Ordinances required approval by the Charity Commissioners and the University, and again alteration would need to be rare. The Regulations effectively summarise the decisions of Governing Body and can be altered at will by the Governing Body. Final approval for the Statutes and Ordinances came through in early 2017, taking effect from 1 October 2017. There will be no thunderclap, no loud adulation, no dramatic celebration to mark this – just a quiet sense of satisfaction that the work has been completed, and that we have a regulatory framework which is, in that well-worn phrase, ‘fit for purpose’.

Work on the Statutes enabled me to refute categorically the assertion sometimes made that the Statutes forbid the presence of a dog on College grounds. Nonetheless, the tradition endures that a dog on College premises must be deemed to be a cat (cats being kept traditionally to keep the rats at bay), and the Governing Body sportingly did so for my dog, marking at last my family’s move into the refurbished Master’s Lodge. For me, that has probably been the biggest material change of the year, and I look forward to welcoming more of you to the Lodge for future reunions and other social occasions.

But of course the Review offers a chance to look forward, as well as back. The recent general election has blown open what I had thought a relatively settled state of affairs as far as student finance goes. I do not think it likely that we will ever see a return to full state funding for undergraduate education, not least because the proportion of 18 year olds going to university is now much higher than it was in the those fast-receding days. But the future of the current loans for fees system is back on the agenda nevertheless. I expect to see continuing debate on the question of student finance. The current burden of debt students are incurring is almost certainly unsustainable in the long run. But what could be put in place of the current system? Nothing I have seen so far makes me want to reconsider my belief that the way forward for Trinity Hall is to continue to build up our reserves, and to extend the provision we make for student support, including undergraduate as well as graduate studentships. It would be wonderful to think that we could be in a position one day to guarantee full funding for all those we want to admit to the College and who might otherwise be deterred from coming here by lack of means. But that is a long-term goal. In the meantime, we must press on and do what we can. At the same time, we face significant challenges from central government on access and inclusion, and the work of our Admissions team is vital to the College’s future success. They do truly remarkable work for the College even as things stand.
Over the last year I have encountered a number of people, mostly alumni from around the globe but also, embarrassingly, our own senior auditor from PEM, who have told me how much they look forward to my annual rant about the otiose nature of Trinity Hall’s statutory accounts.

Apparently, my irreverent and ignorant attitude to our public financial uttering is not held against me, but others (even those in the accounting ‘business’!) share my frustration and regard my letting off steam as a breath of fresh air. I am both astonished and frightened. The latter because, this year, I don’t know what to do for my next trick. Please don’t worry, it is not that the accounts are suddenly models of helpfulness laying out a clear and accurate picture of the College’s health, or even just its wealth, readily understood by all (or, indeed, anyone). They are not. They continue to be an exercise in sophistry and the attenuation of the value of numbers as far as they relate to actual money. It is just that without the introduction of any new utterly pointless changes to the RCCA or Charities SORP in the year under review, I have failed to manifest the energy to tilt at the absurdity of it all. So, unfortunately for my newly discovered fan base, I am going to make this short and sweet— or, at least, as sweet as I can.

A year in which we spent more than we earned

At the recent presentation of the results to the Finance Committee, a preliminary run through the numbers before they are put before Governing Body, I alarmed my colleagues by stating that the deficit had widened by almost £1.3 million. Unfortunately, this is true regarding our unrestricted funds. If you look at the total, by adding in the lines for restricted monies and endowment gifts, the deficit before investment and pensions gains and losses actually widened by just over £1.6 million. How did this happen? The clue is above in the section heading.

In the year to the end of June 2017 the College’s income at £12.85 million was slightly higher than the previous year (£12.3 million). Most income lines were either up a little or broadly flat. ‘Other’ income is 57% lower having benefitted previously from a large currency gain on the US dollar WYNG Gardens donations following the Brexit vote.

Expenditure, on the other hand, was up 17.1% from £12.6 million in 2016 to £14.8 million now. £2.1 million of this was from restricted funds and included an increase of over £300,000 in graduate studentship awards (an increasingly vital activity). Stipend increases reflected greater College financial support within the Fellowship and teaching associates, while staff salary rises were buoyed by the need to restructure kitchen and buttery pay scales in particular. With the new accommodation at WYNG Gardens becoming operational we bore £423,000 of interest costs on the Private Placement loan we took out to help pay for its construction. In future years, these will be more than offset by rents coming back from its use. We also incurred approximately £400,000 of one-off consolidation costs in two subsidiaries, Aula Ltd and Trinity Hall Residences 1, as a result of the conclusion of the Science Park and WYNG Gardens projects.

Other spending included £60,000 more on IT, where we introduced a new EPOS system, upgraded the network and revamped Fellows’ and student accommodation modules. £290,000 is a lot for professional fees (up by £137,000), but they have included legal charges for an exceptional internal issue and architects’ fees on a new building project. All in all, while I believe we must always keep a weather eye on our spending, particularly of unrestricted funds, I do not believe the size of this year’s deficit is pointing towards any structural weakness. It is more the result of a year when we needed to continue spending on important academic programmes, already begun or anticipated, when, unfortunately, there was unusually little coming back in the other direction – a situation exacerbated by last year’s lunatic changes to the treatment of expected but not yet received philanthropy.

“I do not believe the size of this year’s deficit is pointing towards any structural weakness.”

The picture is not as bleak as it may seem

One key area of our activities had a very good year indeed. Our endowment investments were up £31 million, or 19.75%, with excellent all round performance and both our property and securities portfolios contributing. There are a number of ways to calculate the value of the endowment. My view is the only correct way is to remove the capital amounts of long-term borrowings from the totals shown in Note 11 of the published accounts. So, if you remove £25 million from 2016’s number and £40 million from this year’s (which includes the recent Private Placement with PRICOA), add any gains on the investments made with borrowed monies (after debt servicing costs) and ignore whether the funds are ostensibly restricted or spendable (we treat capital from all investments as inviolable, other than applying our Total Return spending rule: spendable (we treat capital from all investments as inviolable, other than applying our Total Return spending rule: investable), you get a movement of expected but not yet received philanthropy.

Pensions bomb: a big problem on the horizon

Every year the funding deficit in the staff’s pension scheme CCFPS seems to widen. This year is no exception, despite notably successful investment and de-risking hedging strategies. The liability has grown by £1.1 million to £6.2 million. However, the scheme is closed to new joiners and we will just have to bridge the gap with a little more money until the next valuation and hope that rising inflation helps a little here. The situation is manageable.

I am much more concerned about USS, the academics’ national scheme and now the largest surviving Defined Benefit operation in the country. There has been much about this in the press. I will restrict myself to a prediction here: USS will not be able to keep going as currently designed much longer. It is a ‘last man standing’ scheme, depending currently designed much longer. It is a ‘last man standing’ scheme, depending on the strong Oxbridge covenant to subsidise operational and borrowing costs of the rest of the sector, while making totally unwarranted assumptions about its future investment performance (especially given its heroically wrong bet about the direction of Gilt prices over the last decade) which have now been refuted by the Pensions Regulator. There is little doubt that USS will also have to close to new joiners and become a DC scheme like all the others. Everyone sees this, except, apparently, the Trustees of USS. I anticipate a lot of pain and expense, for Cambridge and the colleges, before this sinks in. It is one of the things that keeps me awake at night.

Cambridge & Counties Bank

Firstly, an apology. Last year neither I nor the auditors noticed that, when calculating Enterprise Value, the level at which we include this investment in our unquoted equities line, we had neglected to remove our co-investor the Local Government Pension Fund’s capital instrument (formerly preference shares) from the totals. Although we benefit from the growth this supplement to the Bank’s capital base enables, the actual investment must still be repaid to them first and in full. As a result of this oversight, we included CCB at £24.5 million in our numbers last year – it should have been £18 million. This year the Bank is in at £26.5 million, which reflects a really strong year of value enhancement by £8.5 million. The auditors have elected to put a line in the accounts to recognise this error but not to change last year’s published figures.

While we are looking at the Bank, and not wanting to anticipate the December year end result, I will share some insights into how well trading is going in 2017. Profit Before Tax (PBT) in the YTD (September) is over £1.5 million ahead of budget. Return on Investment (ROI) is at 52% against a budgeted 47.5% and the Balance Sheet is over £833 million, an almost £40 million improvement on the forecast. Best of all, and almost unheard of in the banking industry, CCB retains its Customer Satisfaction Score of 99%!

Trinity Hall’s modest investment for 50% of the UK’s fastest growing challenger bank is now covered more than twice over at the most conservative valuation measure we or the auditors could come up with. Some good cheer to end with.
Creating an inspirational environment remains our raison d'être

In 1964, the Cambridge Review (as opposed to the Trinity Hall Review) ventured that it was a safer bet to imagine an astronaut landing on the moon than to envisage mixed colleges in Cambridge. The Review was correct: the moon landing occurred five years later, but it was not until 1972 that our neighbour college, Clare, together with King's and Churchill, became the first male-only colleges to admit women. Trinity Hall followed soon afterwards and this past year saw a series of THwomen40 events celebrating that decision, including the unveiling of a handsome new portrait in the Dining Hall depicting two of my predecessors as Senior Tutor and the College's first female Fellows, Drs Sandra Raban and Kareen Thorne. Painted by the 2017 BP Portrait Award winner Benjamin Sullivan, the portrait is a first step towards meeting regular objections received when I was an Admissions Tutor from cohorts of visiting school pupils – some contemplating applying for admission – who were baffled as to why there wasn’t a single image of a woman displayed in College. (For what it’s worth, I’d also often wondered, during committee meetings in the Leslie Stephen Room, whether just one of the five images of Leslie Stephen formerly on simultaneous display, could perhaps be substituted for a portrait of one of Stephen’s interesting daughters, Virginia Woolf or Vanessa Bell?) Forty years nevertheless remains a small part of the history of a College that is soon approaching its 675th anniversary…

One theme in Sandra Raban’s thoughtful and eloquent compilation The First Women – available from the Porters’ Lodge and Alumni Office – is the characteristically consensual and friendly way in which the decision to admit female students was taken, which was then echoed in the welcome accorded to early female alumnæ. This is a college where the new has seemingly always comfortably cohabited alongside the old. Over the past year, for example, the Master’s Lodge has re-opened to welcome a new generation of students, alumni and guests while, in Thompson’s Lane, the Bursary received unexpected enquiries from nostalgic alumni regarding the fate of furniture and fittings amid the demise of St Clement’s Gardens. On that site, WYNG Gardens now provides sleekly state-of-the-art accommodation for 72 students and vacation conference facilities, while its external façade bears an intricately woven, twisting timber installation by the artist Cath Campbell, the light spirals and swirls of steam-bent oak reinforced by hidden stainless steel bars.

Whether through spirals or steel, creating an inspirational environment remains our raison d’être. In a world increasingly dominated by external metrics, mounting student debt and ‘known unknowns’, such as the impact of Brexit and A-level reform, some aspects of College life remain reassuringly consistent. Sporting performances have been mixed, with notable successes for the women’s football team, coached by Porter Malcolm Pearman. Over a quarter of our undergraduates were elected to academic scholarships based on First Class Tripos examination results last summer, with several undergraduates and graduates winning prestigious University prizes and studentships. As important as league tables, however, is the promotion of wellbeing throughout the Trinity Hall community and generous philanthropic donations now facilitate provision of a College Nurse, Counsellor, Mental Health Adviser and Cognitive Behavioural Therapist, while I remain consistently grateful for the unstinting support provided by the College’s Tutors, Tutorial Office staff and JCR and MCR committee members. In this context, the varied and often surprising experiences accrued as a Tutor of Trinity Hall undergraduates will hopefully serve Professor Jane Clarke well, when she takes up her post as the first female President of Wolfson College next year!
This year has once again been very successful; we admitted 93 new graduates, giving us a total of 244 graduates. Not all of those who accept an offer to join Trinity Hall actually do so. On average, we count on around 60% acceptances per offer, a figure which usually remains steady but was unusually low last year, not just for us, but across the University.

We funded 18 new graduates and 9 continuing PhD students. These are all students of the very highest quality but who have just missed out on funding from more traditional sources. Studentship funding is only possible thanks to the generosity of our donors, often alumni who have themselves benefited from Trinity Hall in one way or another. We renewed our arrangement with the Department of Chemical Engineering and Biotechnology and were able to offer one student the Dr Geraldine Rogers Enterprise Studentship, with thanks to Dr Darrin Disley (1991). A new studentship was finalised during the year: the Rhodes-Moorhouse Studentship will be run in conjunction with the Department of Engineering and the RAF for ten years. This year we again awarded the Supreme Court of Victoria/Trinity Hall Studentship whereby we share funding for an LLM applicant from Melbourne Law School, who gained a deserved first. We also continued to partner with a variety of funding bodies to maximise the value of our studentship funding; we offered three match-funded studentship to Newton Trust recipients and others to students part-funded by the AHRC, ESRC and Cambridge Trusts.

This year we awarded an average of £323 in research support to each graduate student, a figure that has decreased this year from £373 in 2015/16. However, the overall amount of support granted for conference/research funding increased by 38% this year. We also offer limited financial support to students who suffer hardship due to unforeseen events, from which around half a dozen students benefited this year.

Juliet Bristow, College Mental Health Advisor, brought invaluable support to the student cohort, allowing the College to tackle mental health issues promptly.

Charles Board (2010) has expertly led the MCR as President and the MCR Committee has done a wonderful job continuing the College’s tradition of being one of the most vibrant MCRs of any college in Cambridge. The MCR performs many functions for graduates, from organising social occasions to academic events and offering advice on personal and welfare issues. One of its main academic events is the annual Marshall McLuhan Symposium. This year’s theme was ‘Extremes’, organised by Louis Morris (2012) and Kimberley Watt (2016). It is evident from the programme just how unique Cambridge is in being able to gather students from different disciplines in the same academic environment and alumni are very welcome to attend.

A significant part of the MCR is made up of the College’s Postdoctoral Research Associates (PDRAs). These are academics at the beginning of their careers, who join typically for two years at a time. We take in around ten new PDRAs a year but due to a number of exceptional applications, we took 15 this year, raising the Postdoc total to 33. Yue Wu was this year’s PDRA Representative.
The person with most day to day contact with graduates is the Graduate Administrator, and this year we welcomed Charlotte Moss in this role, replacing Katrina Purser. We said farewell to Katrina with gratitude for her excellent work. We would also like to thank Vicky Mills (Admissions Officer), Rosie Ince (Tutorial Registrar), Johannes Ruckstuhl (Tutorial Administrator) and Julie Powley (Tutorial Office Manager). We are fortunate indeed to be able to rely on such an effective and friendly administration, under the overall guidance of the Senior Tutor, Clare Jackson.
Last September, one of my final-year students asked if she could meet to discuss her concerns about Brexit. This exceptional young scientist from Singapore had made Cambridge her home for the past two years. She had been inspired, challenged and encouraged by her lecturers, supervisors and classmates, and nothing she had seen or heard in her time here had made her feel in the least bit unwelcome. The referendum result, however, had come as a shock to her, as it did to so many of us, and she had concerns about Cambridge’s future as a world-leading University and about her own future in the UK as she began to look for a PhD place.

I share many of my student’s concerns. At the time of writing, we are no clearer on how Brexit will affect our access to research funding from the European Union, our ability to collaborate with academics and industry partners in Europe, and most importantly our ability to recruit and retain staff and students from overseas. A number of visitors to Trinity Hall echoed these themes during the recent University Open Days, whilst last October a number of colleges reported a fall in applications from non-UK EU countries in the wake of the referendum result.

It saddens me that the UK’s reputation as a welcoming and inclusive home for international academics and global ideas is being questioned. Whilst the majority of our undergraduates are UK students, the EU and international students that we admit are a vital part of our student body. Coming from different cultures and education systems, they bring with them new perspectives that challenge and enrich the experiences of our home students. When they graduate, and perhaps return to their home countries, they take some of Cambridge’s ideas and ethos with them and are the greatest ambassadors for our brand of globally-minded academic excellence.

Along with many others across the University, I engage in international outreach activities, undertaking school visits and undergraduate interviews overseas. These activities have given me an invaluable insight into different secondary education systems, and have brought me into contact with some truly outstanding students. It is vital that we continue to welcome these scholars to Cambridge, and my colleagues at Trinity Hall and across the university are determined to ensure this. I reassured my student that whatever the outcome of the negotiations between the UK and EU, and whatever challenges Brexit may pose, Cambridge will remain a world-leading university and a home to exceptional young men and women like her from all corners of the world.

As we conclude another busy year in the Admissions Office, I would like to thank Vicky Mills who continues to be the most outstanding Admissions Officer in Cambridge! I would also like to acknowledge Dr Stephen Plant who has been the acting Admissions Tutor for Arts and Humanities this year, and welcome Dr Will Skylark who will take over this role from October 2017. I would also like to welcome Helena Blair, who has joined the Admissions Office as our first full-time Schools Liaison and Outreach Officer. With Helena’s arrival we have begun to expand our access work in our link areas of Somerset, Bath and North-East Somerset, South Gloucestershire and Bristol, and this year we have been able to engage more students than ever before in masterclasses, residential visits and admissions workshops.
The importance of grace... remains something to aim for.

It would be hard to think of a ‘paper’ by any academic that has had greater impact than Martin Luther’s 95 Theses setting out his ‘Disputation on the Power and Efficacy of Indulgences’. While the details of the date and the circumstances of their ‘publication’ are rather vague, it is undoubtedly the case that within months of their being written in 1517 they were being read widely throughout Europe. Martin Luther’s key theological insight was based on his ‘rediscovery’ of the Apostle Paul’s teaching that ‘by grace you have been saved through faith, and this is not your doing; it is the gift of God’. The impact was huge: between 1521 and 1545 a third of all publications in the German language were written by Protestant reformers. Moreover, depending on one’s interpretive position, Luther’s theological revolution contributed to, coincided with, or resulted from, rapid social and political change.

In the Lent Term, we marked the 500th anniversary of the beginning of the Reformation with a series of sermons in Chapel addressing key aspects of Luther’s radical theology. From Cambridge, we heard the historian Professor Richard Rex and the Regius Professor of Divinity, Ian McFarland (in a bravura address at the Founders’ and Benefactors’ Commemoration service). From Germany, Professor Ralf Wüstenberg (of Flensburg University) and Pfarrer Oliver Fischer contributed. Two sermons were given by Roman Catholics. In the concluding service of the series we used a liturgy for Lutheran Vespers, with canticles and anthem by Schütz and Bach.

“I am grateful to the Master and Fellows for allowing me to take academic leave (supported by the Newton Trust, the British Academy and the Leverhulme Trust) in 2017/18. In the Michaelmas and Lent Terms of 2017/18 the Revd Roger Greeves will act as Dean; I will return as Dean in the Easter Term.”

Trinity Hall members and alumni made some particularly memorable contributions to services during the year. Terry Waite offered an unforgettable account of his five years in captivity. Canon Jessica Martin (1983), the Revd Cortland Fransella (1967) and the Bishop of Southwark, the Rt Rev Christopher Chessun (1980), also returned. Christopher Rogers (2015) has been attached for a second year from Westcott House and has made a valuable contribution to Chapel life. He took the initiative in a special service marking International Women’s Day and preached at the Leavers’ Service. His cocktail-making skills will also be missed (it took me several weeks to recover from the freshers’ drinks party we hosted in C3 in the first week of term). Arion Pons (2015) served as Chapel sacristan for the year; the University service in which Arion was baptised and confirmed was a very joyful event. It is an obvious observation, but worth making, that events in which students take the initiative, such as serving hot chocolate and port after compline, can have a greater reach among students than those the Dean takes alone.

Whatever one makes of Luther’s legacy, through the pastoral support to all members of the College the importance of grace expressed through generosity, kindness, attentiveness and hospitality, remains something to aim for.
Alumni Relations Report
This year has been full of events and features to mark the 40th anniversary of the admission of women to College. My unforgettable moment from this year’s events would be the chocolate sculpture of Front Court that alumna Cheryl Brighty (1987) prepared for the Black & White Ball, which was held on 1 July to mark the anniversary. It was so good the Fellows could not bear to let it go and won it in the auction! The evening saw our largest alumni dinner to date with dancing in a marquee to live music afterwards, complete with bar, casino, sweet cart and photo booth. The day was filled with talks and tours, and an interesting panel discussion chaired by Susie Fowler Watt (1987) titled ‘40 years on – have we smashed the glass ceiling’, which you can view online at www.trinhall.cam.ac.uk/th40

To mark the anniversary, we also have a termly lecture running during 2016/17 and 2017/18, an exhibition in the Old Library, and a series of alumnae profiles on our website: www.trinhall.cam.ac.uk/th40. Thanks to Sandra Raban, we have produced a book titled The First Women, featuring interviews with Trinity Hall women, and alumna Laura Davidson (1998) has designed a Trinity Hall sterling silver pendant, both of which are available to purchase.

As the Senior Tutor mentioned, we also have a portrait of women in the Dining Hall for the first time. This has been accompanied by a series of photo portraits of female Trinity Hall members.

The alumni regatta was another big event earlier in the spring, with over 70 alumni coming back to compete in friendly races. The Fellows even managed to convene a boat – including some brave novices. It was also an opportunity to unveil the new women’s boat to mark THwomen40.

Our usual programme of reunions and anniversaries continues. There was a great turn out from 2010 for their MA in the spring, and then we held anniversary reunions for 25, 50 and 60 years from matriculation; 1957 and 1967 marked their anniversary by making class gifts to support the freshers of 2017. We also held a reunion for 1961-3 and continue to work with student societies wishing to invite alumni to their events.

The Trinity Hall Alumni Association held their London event during the glorious May weather at Trinity House, as well as a regional event in Glasgow. Overseas, we travelled to New York for a dinner following a panel discussion of alumnae from three colleges marking 40 years since the admission of women. We also held a dinner in Toronto and had chance to see the alumni Varsity ice hockey match. Over the summer, we held a dinner in Paris and a reception in Brussels. The Master, the Revd Dr Jeremy Morris, travelled to Australia for the first time before our annual dinner in Hong Kong in September. Over 600 alumni came back to events in College during the past year with a further 200 attending events in 11 different locations outside Cambridge.

We have also improved our online community, www.THalumni.net, so that alumni can now send a private message to other Trinity Hall members. This will enable us to develop our careers network. For more information contact careers@trinhall.cam.ac.uk

I would like to take this opportunity to thank Colin Hayes (1962), who has just stepped down from his role as THA President, for all his hard work over the past three years. We look forward to working with Roger McKinlay (1979) as he takes up the role.
Development Report

Thank you to everyone who has supported us during the year. Our total income received for the 2016/17 financial year is £2,016,874 and funds raised were £1,511,792. We are pleased that 1,242 alumni donated to the College during the past financial year.

During the past year we continued to fundraise for the John Collier Fellowship in John’s memory and we are very grateful to all those who make a donation.

Thanks to donations we have been able to expand the range of prizes available for undergraduate subjects as well as being able to offer awards for other fields including visual arts and entrepreneurship.

Our 13th telephone campaign took place over Easter and raised over £190,000. Ten callers spoke to 481 alumni. Over 62% agreed to make a gift, with nearly 100 people making their first gift to the College.

Over the summer, we have been preparing for the launch of our crowdfunding platform, ClickHall, in conjunction with the JCR and MCR, which will facilitate fundraising for student initiatives.

Donations to the Trinity Hall Fund totalling £945,089 will be used over the next year to:

- support graduate students attending conferences and undertaking fieldwork
- assist undergraduates suffering from unexpected financial hardship
- improve pastoral care by helping to support a Mental Health Adviser in College
- expand access and outreach activities, and support a full time Schools Liaison Officer
- conserve manuscripts in the Old Library and in the archives
- resurface the College tennis courts
- support the teaching of English within the College by helping with the costs of a new College Teaching Officer

All donations are greatly appreciated by everyone here. For a list of donors see pages 50-58.

Philanthropic income received: for different purposes

- New buildings £819,792.00
- Unrestricted £652,973.63
- Student support £254,195.02
- Teaching £122,877.37
- Refurbishment £120,121.67

Philanthropic income received: source of donation

- Trusts and foundations £1,034,792.23
- Alumni £744,129.37
- Parents and friends £104,291.63
- Legacies from alumni £71,475.67
- Corporates £13,695.80
- Staff and Fellows £4,784.49
This year has been a year of completing, adjusting and amending the way in which the College operates as it has taken on additional and refurbished property. The completion of WYNG Gardens in October 2016 has enabled the students to enjoy nearly a full academic year in the new facilities. We have had a number of opening ceremonies, the most important of which was on 5 June 2017 when Dr Anthony Ng officially opened the new accommodation on behalf of the WYNG Foundation. The new facility has meant a full restructure of the Porters team to accommodate an additional lodge/reception area. We are now covered 24 hours a day in all of our three sites and thanks must be noted to the Head Porter, Deputy Head Porter and the Porters team for seeing through a difficult period of transition.

Much later than planned, the Master’s Lodge refurbishment was handed back in December 2016 and the Master and his family have settled into their new home. The refurbishment also provided us with five beautifully designed and laid out guest rooms on the second floor, as well as restoring the magnificent decoration and detail of the ground floor College rooms and the first floor residence.

The College has commenced the refurbishment of the Alumni and Development Office to reorganise I staircase to both give back a couple of student rooms for student use and re-assign the existing guest rooms we had at the top of I, now the five new ones on W are in full use.

The Master Planning of College has progressed well with the scope widening to understand where Central Site and Wychfield need to be in 20+ years. The development of College over the last ten years has left areas that are not fit for purpose or contain too much wasted space. This gives the opportunity for College to consider their needs and strategy for the next ten years and plan accordingly.

A design for the new music facilities in Avery Court has reached Stage 2. We are grateful to the Avery-Tsui Foundation for making this possible. Niall McLaughlin Architects have delivered a beautiful building design for which the planners have so far been encouraging and enthusiastic; however, achieving planning permission for such an ambitious scheme is a hurdle we are yet to face.

In relation to administrative staff, Trinity Hall has seen another year of change, most significantly in our Head Gardener who left the College after 17 years to become Head Gardener at Anglesey Abbey. His legacy in the gardens at Trinity Hall is there for all to see and I am pleased to say the care and attention will continue with Sam Hartley, who has stepped up to be Head Gardener going forward.

The Cambridge market for employment has not abated and recruiting good, experienced staff becomes harder, particularly in catering and maintenance. The College continues to operate at full pace with far more peak times than down times.”
Since joining Trinity Hall last September, I have been struck by the wide variety of catering and events that we deliver, all to an exceptional standard. Our team includes a wealth of hospitality and catering experience and invaluable knowledge, further enhanced by additions to the teams, including our new Manciple, Daniel Rabaca, and through several internal promotions.

Among the highlights of the past year has been the opening of our outstanding new conference and events facilities at WYNG Gardens on Thompson’s Lane. We have had the pleasure of welcoming a range of University departments, major businesses and Trinity Hall members to WYNG Gardens over the past few months. It has been a delight to witness their appreciation of these exceptional new facilities, which are utilised by our students during term time. We have thoroughly enjoyed watching the walled garden flourish under the hands of our expert gardening team who have transformed this space into an urban oasis of vibrant colours; an ideal suntrap for summer BBQs and drinks receptions.

One of the most enjoyable aspects of our role is to help enhance clients’ events with theming and imaginative touches to help create an unforgettable event. Highlights this year included a Latin-American themed event with piñatas, a Cuban band, street performers and an array of street food stalls. With the renewed popularity of gin, we have been delighted to offer gin bars and gin tastings, as well as cocktail bars and wine tasting events, all of which have been favourably received by guests!

The MCR and JCR have also been inventive with their Superhalls, which has allowed the creativity of our chefs to shine through with themed menus for Charlie and the Chocolate Factory, Disney Classics and James Bond.

As our catering team continues to enhance our environmental achievements, a number of our chefs enjoyed taking a specialist vegan cookery course, allowing us to offer College members and guests vegan options on all menus. We are delighted that our new vegan dishes have proved so popular. Sustainability and traceability continue to be a key consideration when creating our menus, not only for the fine dining enjoyed at the reunions and other celebratory events, but on a day to day basis for students, staff and Fellows.

Over the past year, we have once again been delighted to welcome back alumni and friends of Trinity Hall for a host of special events. We were also pleased to welcome alumni-related businesses for a variety of conferences and day meetings, many of whom utilised our new facilities at WYNG Gardens.

Looking forward to the year ahead, we hope to have the pleasure of welcoming you back to Trinity Hall again soon. If we can be of any assistance then please contact Trinity Hall’s Conference and Events team:

The Jerwood Library
The installation of rolling stacks on the lower ground floor of the Library has given us much needed additional shelf space. During the summer vacation of 2017 we relocated the classics and history sections to the lower ground floor and moved the cramped social sciences section from the mezzanine to the freed-up shelf space on the first floor. The Library was also refurbished in July 2017. The Reading Room has been redecorated and is looking splendid, as are the newly re-upholstered blue chairs on the first floor. The mezzanine has been brightened up with purple window seats and colourful scatter cushions! Studying at Cambridge can be stressful and students face various challenges at different stages during their time here. We have created a welfare collection of books recommended by the University Counselling Service to support our undergraduate and graduate students.

The Old Library
The project to create online catalogue records for the printed books in the Old Library is nearly complete! Our two rare books cataloguers, Adriana Celmare and Allen Purvis, have finished cataloguing the 16th-century printed books and are due to finish the 17th-century printed books by December. We are very grateful to Tom Crawley for his sponsorship of the cataloguing project. Our projects for the future include reprinting Lavinia Hinton’s booklet The Story of the Library, with additional illustrations to showcase the treasures of the Old Library, and the publication of a catalogue of the medieval manuscripts of Trinity Hall. We were delighted by the return of MS. 13 Sermons of Guilelmus Peraldus from conservation – it looks marvellous and

The Librarian’s Report
The transformation of the Library

“...we would like to thank the Reverend Cortland Fransella (1967) for his generous sponsorship of the manuscript.”

Fellow Archivist and Librarian
To mark the retirement of Dr John Pollard (1963) as Fellow Archivist and Librarian in October 2017, we take a brief look at the transformation of the Library since 2004. Staffing levels have increased from one job-share to two full-time members of Library staff. The book buying budget is on a firm footing, allowing us to add about 1,000 new books each year. The lack of space has – for the time being – been confronted by finding shelves in the SCR and at Wychfield and by the installation of rolling stacks. Through John Pollard’s advocacy and guidance, the Jerwood Library has taken its place at the heart of the College.

John has also been tireless on behalf of the Old Library. He has conducted numerous tours for alumni, Fellows, students and visitors. In July 2010, he launched the Supporters of the Old Library scheme, with several very successful events over the years. We are grateful to our alumni for the funds raised towards our cataloguing project and conservation work.

Last but not least, mention must be made of John’s role as Fellow Archivist (2003-17). During this time, as well as answering numerous enquiries, he addressed the issues of low staffing levels, cataloguing, conservation and space. From an Assistant Archivist working one morning a week, we now have Alex Browne, College Archivist and Records Manager, who works four days a week. The cataloguing of the Archives online is well underway, there is a regular programme of conservation and there is now an office with a table for visitors consulting the Archives.

John was appointed Fellow Archivist in 2003, a post he combined with the post of Fellow Librarian from 2004-10 and 2013-17. From 2010-13 the post of Fellow Librarian was very ably filled by Dr Tadashi Tokieda.

We would like to record our thanks to all our generous donors who have supported the Old Library and the Jerwood Library this year.
At the conclusion of last year’s summer tour of Brittany and Paris, Trinity Hall Chapel Choir (THCC) waved a sad but fond farewell to an unusually large proportion of its membership; 14(!) out of 25 singers were departing Cambridge for pastures new and, thus, the 2016/17 academic year was destined as a year of re-growth. To say, then, that the Choir has exceeded expectations over the last 12 months is a great understatement; indeed this has been a year packed full of choral highlights.

Early in the Michaelmas Term, the Choir greatly enjoyed a return visit to Ely in order to sing Evensong in the incomparable acoustic of the Lady Chapel. Just a week later, the Master preached at the University Sermon Commemoration of Benefactors Service and we were honoured to represent Trinity Hall in singing for the occasion. For a choir whose principal diet is that of music suited to the Office of Evensong, it was a rare treat to sing for a morning service and to have the opportunity to sing Stanford’s noble and melodious C major-setting of the Te Deum, accompanied on the fine historic University Organ housed in the West End gallery of the University Church. Further highlights within the Choir’s routine schedule of Chapel services this year included a wonderfully atmospheric Advent Carol Service and a special service of Lutheran Vespers at the end of the Lent Term, marking the 500th Anniversary of the Reformation. The Choir performed Heinrich Schütz’s dramatic Deutsches Magnificat for double-choir and Bach’s exquisite Chorale-motet, O Jesu Christ, meins Lebens Licht.

Over the Easter vacation, the Choir undertook a five-day tour of Tuscany where they gave three excellent concerts in Pisa, Siena and Florence. The Choir relished the opportunity to sing in some lavish acoustics and the organ scholars performed admirably on some fine, fully restored, historic Italian organs dating from the 16th century. Such tours are always a highlight within the THCC calendar, both musically and socially, but I think everyone involved would agree that this year’s trip stood out as being particularly memorable.

Shortly after our return to Cambridge, just ten days into the Easter Term, it was a source of great pride for the Choir to launch their fantastic new CD The English Orpheus, featuring choral and instrumental music by the great English Restoration composer, Henry Purcell. A celebratory Evensong, reception and dinner was enjoyed by all who attended and it was a great delight to be able to welcome back a number of former THCC members who had taken part in the recording just over a year ago. This latest recording of the Choir performing alongside the soloists and players of the College’s professional Ensemble in Residence Orpheus Britannicus is a tremendous achievement and the fine review they have since received in the internationally respected Gramophone magazine reflects great credit upon themselves and upon the Hall.

“The Choir undertook a five-day tour of Tuscany where they gave three excellent concerts in Pisa, Siena and Florence.”

College News
If there’s one thing that’s struck me about the past year in Trinity Hall, it’s the renewed sense of solidarity and passion evident in all spheres of College life. This year marked the 40th anniversary of women being admitted to College. The undergraduate body expressed its support for the continued efforts to achieve gender equality in a number of ways. As his last act, the outgoing President of the JCR, Sam Pulman-Slater (2014), de-gendered the role of Welfare Officers – a gesture important for ensuring sustained representation of women and non-binary individuals in College. We also showed commitment to representing women in education through our involvement in CUSU’s Women’s Campaign; Anna Pick (2015) was elected as the Media and Outreach Officer and I took on the role of International Rep.

In homage to the progress made by and for women at Trinity Hall, the College commissioned ten photographic portraits of women associated with Trinity Hall. Their outstanding achievements were showcased in a rolling portrait exhibition in the Dining Hall, which will continue into the 2017/18 academic year. Amongst the women portrayed were 2016 Law graduate and outgoing CUSU Women’s Officer Audrey Sebatindira (2013) and JCR Special Considerations Officer Saskia Pain (2013), who joined the Feminist Forum (FemFo) Committee to discuss issues related to gender equality. On the sporting front, Trinity Hall women once again excelled; despite having only been promoted to the 1st division last season, the women’s football team not only managed to stay in this division, but came in third in the league tables!

Along with the THwomen40 festivities, we have seen renewed dedication to growth and rejuvenation in other areas too. Our Green & Ethical Affairs Officers, Abdulrahman Al-Mohammad (2015) and Elise Hagan (2015), are working to introduce College branded reusable coffee cups as part of an initiative to cut down on use of disposable cups. The recently revived Preston Society continued to pick up steam with a very successful production of Oscar Wilde’s The Importance of Being Earnest. In the same spirit, Ents Officers Chris Jones (2015) and Isaac Squires (2015), breathed new life into the College’s bi-weekly bops ‘VIVA!’ with a complete rebranding. Now, The Crescent Room not only boasts healthy event attendances and free face glitter, but also the occasional donut or cookie giveaway!

Of course, the undergraduate experience was not only defined by change. Well-established structures and traditions continued to play a part in the quintessential Trinity Hall narrative. Bridgernas celebrations, Easter Term lounges on Latham Lawn, and May Week garden parties remained staples of the College social calendar. Once again, the undergraduate ballot ran smoothly. The latest addition to Trinity Hall real-estate, WYNG Gardens, was very well-received and quickly reached full occupancy during the balloting process. This was the first year the JCR Committee handled the accommodation arrangements for continuing third year students, which proceeded seamlessly with the aid of the newly introduced role of Accommodation and Services Officers (ASOs).

Looking ahead, it is my hope that this desire to build an inclusive, sustainable College will infect future cohorts with an energy to join this pursuit of continual progress as a community.

The MCR President’s Report

We have been working to ensure that all members of the MCR integrate fully.

It has been an exciting year for the MCR community with a lively calendar of events, both social and academic. We have been working to ensure that all members of the MCR integrate fully, with the first election of a Post-Doctoral Research Associate (PDRA) Representative to the MCR committee. This year has seen an increasing number of PDRA's attending MCR events and taking up positions on the committee, whilst almost all fourth year undergraduates have also chosen to take up MCR membership, both of which are situations that we hope will continue long into the future!

The social calendar this year has seen a wide variety of events, formals and black tie dinners. Themed Superhalls have continued to be a big hit, including the now traditional Harry Potter formal (with owls!) in Michaelmas, a song-filled Disney Superhall in Lent and a top secret espionage themed Annual Dinner in Easter, whilst our Farewell Dinner allowed us to see off the year in true style with the chocolate delights of Charlie and the Chocolate Factory. The MCR Garden Party was also great fun this year, including both a petting zoo and miniature golf. This year has also seen the MCR societies’ budget put to good use, with the formation of our very own MCR Board Games Society. Finally, to mark the THwomen40 anniversary, the MCR women’s officers, together with the JCR, organised the first TH Women’s Garden Party.

The flagship Marshall McLuhan symposium was held at the start of Easter, focusing on ‘extremes’ of all kinds, and we were privileged to welcome Dr Noemie Bouhana (1998) as the keynote speaker. The weekly McMenemy seminar series has continued to give graduate students and PDRA’s the opportunity to share their work with the MCR before graduation.

The MCR relies on the support of the College staff, without which it would not be possible for such a warm and welcoming community to exist, and to all of whom we are extremely grateful. The Graduate Tutor, Dr Bartels, and the Deputy Graduate Tutor, Dr Turchyn, have worked tirelessly throughout the year to ensure that MCR members have the support they need. This year we have said goodbye to Katrina Purser as our Graduate Administrator, who provided incredible support to graduate students over the years, and welcomed Charlotte Moss who is already a key figure in graduate life in College. We would also like to thank Junior Bursar Glen Sharp, Head Porter Ian Lyons, Domus Tutor Andrew Arthur and Head of Conferencing and Catering Fiona Simon, all of whom have worked with the MCR throughout the year to ensure that events have run smoothly and problems have been resolved quickly. Our greatest thanks, however, go to the Master, the Revd Dr Jeremy Morris, who has provided deep and ongoing support to the MCR and the graduate community over the year.

Finally, we would like to bid farewell to the many members of the MCR who are leaving us this year, and to wish them the very best in their future endeavours.

Engineering Society
David Powell (2014)

It has been another successful year for Trinity Hall Engineering Society. The main event was our annual dinner, held in Hall for the second year, and was another quality occasion. It would not have been possible without the generous sponsorship of WME consultants.

Music Society
Anna Semple (2015)

It has been another strong year for music at Trinity Hall, with a plethora of recitals given by soloists and groups, as well as the society’s participation in the first-ever joint arts societies garden party.

In Michaelmas Term, we saw our freshers take to the stage in the first recital of the term, with impressive performances from a range of instrumentalists and singers. As the year progressed, the freshers remained highly involved in attending and participating in the recital series, with Sinead Lucas (2016) and Ashley Yu (2016), accompanied by Henry Baxter (2016), taking to the stage in a solo flute recital in Easter Term.

We have also seen a range of performers this year – from a chamber recital by six violists, to a solo vibraphone recital given by Carl Wikeley (2014), and a solo guitar recital by the current Trinity Hall Instrumental Award holder, Noah Fram (2016).

Outside of the recital series, this year has seen the exciting revival of the Trinity Hall Singers (led by Polly Harlow (2015)), who gave their first public performance in Lent Term with great success. Additionally, they, along with members of the Trinity Hall Chapel Choir and other students, took part in carol singing in the market square, which was a highly popular event that we are keen to follow up next year.

It has been great to welcome so many new and returning faces to the Music Society’s events this year, and we are all excited for what the next year will bring!
It has been an incredibly exciting year for the Preston Society. This Lent Term, we were delighted to fund and put on a fantastic production of The Importance of Being Earnest, directed by Mary Flanagan (2015). We were thrilled with the support shown by the student body, both from students in and outside College. Our wonderful cast and crew revealed an enthusiasm and talent within Trinity Hall for theatre, which promises exciting opportunities for College drama in the coming year.

Jan-Melissa Schramm is a University Lecturer in Nineteenth-Century Literature and a Fellow and Director of Studies in English at Trinity Hall. Before studying for her PhD she worked as a lawyer in private practice, dealing primarily with criminal cases. She has particular research interests in authors whose writings engage intensely with law and the rhetoric of empiricism; literature and theology; legal history, the law of evidence and professional ethics; Victorian jurisprudence; literary representations of Chartism, Chartist poetry, and mid-Victorian socialist thought; theatre history, religious drama and censorship.

The purpose of this evening is to gather together in celebration of the achievements of a seventeenth-century Master of Trinity Hall, Dr Thomas Eden, who sought, in his Last Will and Testament dated 24 January 1643, to provide charitably for our College community, past, present and future. Dr Eden directed that on the occasion of this oration, we should commemorate the Civil and Ecclesiastic Laws, our Founder and our Benefactors, and tonight I will do my best to perform that honour by describing the work of one of our nineteenth-century Masters whose corpus of writing continues to exert tremendous influence over the disciplines of comparative law, jurisprudence, and legal history and thus over my own research in the history of ideas. This is Sir Henry Sumner Maine, born in Scotland in 1822, scholar of Pembroke College, Cambridge, Fellow of Trinity Hall from 1845 and our Master from 1877 until his death in 1888.

Data protection
2016 and 2017 have been years where charities have faced increased regulation – both through the establishment of a new fundraising regulator and through new European data protection law. These are the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) and an update to the Privacy and Electronics Communication Regulation (PECR), which both come into effect in 2018. The College is fully committed to excellent fundraising practice, and supports the aims of the Code of Fundraising Practice as issued by the new Fundraising Regulator in July 2017. The College has always taken the privacy of alumni data very seriously. To ensure we continue to comply with legislation we have revised our data protection policy, which can be found on our website: www.trinhall.cam.ac.uk/about/college-governance. It may be that going forwards collegiate Cambridge will need your consent to be able to continue to contact you by certain means. If you have any concerns please contact compliance@trinhall.cam.ac.uk

Art
The last year saw the commissioning of two pieces of artwork for the Dining Hall through donations. The first was the painting of Drs Sandra Raban and Kareen Thorne as the first two female Fellows at the College, who joined in 1976. This was painted by the winner of the 2017 BP portrait award, Benjamin Sullivan and unveiled before the THA annual dinner on 23 September. This was made possible through the generosity of the Trinity Hall Association and Honorary Fellow, Nigel Thomas. Nigel also kindly made a donation to enable us to re-establish the tradition of having an arras hung in the Dining Hall. Cornelia Parker OBE was commissioned to create a tapestry, inspired by her work ‘30 pieces of silver’. The threads of the tapestry incorporate a piece of College silver and the tapestry depicts a selection of the College’s most significant silver pieces, including the Founder’s Cup. We are also grateful to Professor William Ballantyne (1940) who donated a Palma Giovane painting, which has been hung in the Chapel.

Campaign update
The University and Colleges of Cambridge have raised £945 million in new philanthropic income as part of the ‘Dear World... Yours, Cambridge’ campaign (as of 30 September 2017). Soon it will pass £1 billion, marking the halfway point to the campaign goal of £2 billion. Gifts made to Trinity Hall stay right here in College but count towards the campaign total.

The Trinity Hall community consists of 8,300 members across 100 different countries. We highlight news from some of our alumni and from the Trinity Hall Association.
Saturday 12 November found the THA in Glasgow for dinner in the House for an Art Lover, a house designed by Charles Rennie Mackintosh in the grounds of Bellahouston Park. It was a small, select gathering in what proved to be a good venue and a very enjoyable evening.

We held our London event on Thursday 25 May at Trinity House in a magnificent room looking out over the Tower of London. Just under 100 members met for drinks, canapés and good fellowship.

As part of THwomen40, the commemoration of the first 40 years of women at Trinity Hall, a portrait was commissioned of the two first female fellows of the College. The Association decided to make a substantial contribution to the cost of the portrait and a cheque for £5,000 was presented to the Master at the Trinity House event. The President of the THA, Colin Hayes (1962), was present at the unveiling of the portrait in the Hall on the evening of Saturday 1 July.

The 2017 Annual General Meeting (AGM) was held in College on Saturday
“As part of THwomen40, the commemoration of the first 40 years of women at Trinity Hall, a portrait was commissioned of the two first female fellows of the College. The Association decided to make a substantial contribution to the cost of the portrait and a cheque for £5,000 was presented to the Master at the Trinity House event.”

23 September, preceded by a presentation from a 2017 THA Award winner. At the AGM, Colin Hayes stood down as President and Roger McKinlay (1979) was named as his successor. Emily Floeck (2007) and Anne Wolff (1979) were elected to the Committee.

The AGM was followed by a truly superb dinner – wonderful food accompanied by some terrific wines, great service and excellent company. At the dinner, Roger McKinlay paid tribute to our outgoing President before presenting him with an engraved silver tun, a joint gift from the Master and Fellows and the members of the Association to mark, with grateful thanks, his service to both the College and the Association over a number of years.

Our last event of the 2017 calendar year is at Penshurst Place, the ancestral home of the Sidney family (of Sir Philip Sidney fame), on 11 November. The Committee are now hard at work planning events for 2018 and 2019 – remember that we are always open to suggestions for venues for future events.

As always, we are deeply indebted to the support that we receive from the staff of the Alumni and Development Office throughout the year; without them we would find it very difficult to function. It has also been a great delight to welcome the Master to every one of our events during the course of the year as part of that enduring link between all of us and the Hall.

We look forward to seeing as many of you as possible at our forthcoming events.

Dr Chris Angus (1967)

Trinity Hall Events

www.trinhall.cam.ac.uk/events

Dining Rights and Alumni Benefits

Alumni dining rights are open to undergraduate alumni who have received or been invited to receive their MA and graduate alumni who have received their degree and who are not currently in statu pupillari and in residence. Dining rights entitle those eligible to dine in College free of charge on any three Thursdays or Saturdays each year during Full Term. A guest may be brought in place of one of these three occasions.

Please book with the Butler on ser44@cam.ac.uk or 01223 766333.

Alumni are also entitled to discounts on guest rooms and private dinners booked in College, to use our sports facilities and to book our punts during the summer months.

www.trinhall.cam.ac.uk/alumni/benefits/

CAMCard and University Benefits

All alumni who matriculated at Cambridge are entitled to a CAMCard from the University Development & Alumni Relations Office. This entitles holders to access the colleges including King’s College Chapel, membership of the University College Centre and various discounts at Cambridge hotels, shops and restaurants and punting.

For more details see:
www.alumni.cam.ac.uk

Alumni are eligible for membership of the Fitness, Strength and Condition Suite at the University of Cambridge Sports Centre (visit the website: www.sport.cam.ac.uk) and can apply for access to the University Library and use the University Careers Service. The University Alumni website has further details on their events, the travel programme and University merchandise. Visit the website:

Get Involved

The Trinity Hall Review is produced by the Alumni & Development Office at Trinity Hall. We welcome any feedback on the publication.

Please contact: publications@trinhall.cam.ac.uk
We are grateful to any alumni who are willing to offer careers advice to our students and recent graduates.

For further information see www.trinhall.cam.ac.uk/careernetwork

Help our students: Join our career network

We have a variety of College gifts available to alumni including sterling silver pendants, mugs, the new Trinity Hall dog and The First Women book – a collection of memoirs, interview and stories looking back on the first 40 years of women at Trinity Hall.

See our full gift range at: www.trinhall.cam.ac.uk/giftshop
Gifts to the College can be made in a variety of ways, including regularly by Direct Debit or Give As You Earn (GAYE) or as one-off donations by credit card, cheque or charity voucher. It is possible to make an online donation to any of our funds by Direct Debit or credit card via our website:

www.trinhall.cam.ac.uk/onlinegiving

The College is a registered charity so donations made by UK taxpayers are eligible for Gift Aid. Tax-efficient giving is also available from some European countries, Hong Kong and the USA. Alumni in the USA can give tax efficiently via Cambridge in America:

www.cantab.org

More information about methods of giving can be found on:
